

ALL THINGS AEROFLOW SLEEP NEWSLETTER

New Year, New You

"New year, new you" is a common saying seen in January. Often connected to dieting, weight loss, and mental health programs, it's how we manifest 2023 as our best year yet.

Aeroflow Sleep believes in manifesting too but for a healthcare problem far less talked about: sleep apnea.

At one point, you were interested in the PAP therapy we provide or you wouldn't be receiving this newsletter. So, let's turn that interest into reality this year!

To see if you're eligible to receive PAP supplies through insurance, fill out our online form below. If you qualify, Aeroflow Sleep is here to help manifest your new you:

CURRENT PROJECTS: MEDICAL REVIEWERS

Disseminating important information to you is one of Aeroflow Sleep's top priorities. That's why we keep licensed medical professionals on retainer for all health-related content.

Until recently, these medical professionals acted from the field, without proper recognition. Now, we are working hard to credit them for your benefit.

Aeroflow Sleep's new editorial policy allows you to see exactly which medical professional has endorsed each blog, with their name listed in the bylines.

You can even select the blogs you want to read by author, so if you like Meagan, the Marketing Coordinator's writing style and trust Dr. May's medical expertise, you can filter for that combo!

Your viewpoint matters, so enjoy the freedom of being able to choose your doctor, even in the media.

HOW TO CONNECT YOUR RESVENT IBREEZE TO WIFI

If you use the Resvent iBreeze CPAP Machine, you're probably aware that recent updates to compliance requirements have led to needing to connect your device to WiFi.

Jimmy, the PAP Intake Manager of Aeroflow Sleep, is here to share his 3-step process for how to connect your Resvent iBreeze CPAP Machine to WiFi. Follow along to get yours set up today!
